

Doctor Discussion Guide

It's natural to have concerns about eye surgery. When going in for a consultation with an eye surgeon, having questions ready to ask can help relieve your fears. The more you learn, the sooner you'll be able to make informed decisions.

Questions to Ask Before LASIK

How long have you been performing LASIK procedures?

What results can someone with my vision problem realistically expect from LASIK?

What percentage of your patients achieve 20/40 vision or better?

What percentage of your patients achieve 20/20 vision or better?

How many patients report unresolved complications six months after the surgery?

If enhancement surgery is required, what will you charge?

Do my occupation and hobbies affect my candidacy?

Does my medical history have any bearing on my candidacy?

How often and when will you perform postoperative examinations?
